Capstone Award

Each year an award is presented to the graduating student whose Capstone project research shines. The Capstone Award recognizes research excellence in two categories: (a) execution of the overall research process and (b) quality of the research outcome. This year's Capstone Award recipient will be announced at the AIM Graduation Luncheon.

AIM Faculty

The AIM Program faculty are as multidisciplinary as the master's degree curriculum they teach. Many of them serve as instructors at other institutions of higher education. A majority of these professionals work as information management leaders in the private and public sectors or as heads of their own companies.

Our instructors are passionate about educating a dynamic group of graduate students who apply their education immediately in their professions.
